

To: The Members of the School Council

Castlecroft Primary School

CC: Mr A Dyll (Head Teacher)

Today the 11th November 2014, I visited Jeffcock Road Cemetery to place a cross of remembrance on my Grandfather's grave; he was Sapper Thomas Evans and was killed in the First World War.

I was so pleased and grateful to see the note of remembrance placed on his grave by your school council and to read the message therein. How correct you are in stating that all of us and all future generations must never forget the sacrifice made by thousands and thousands of brave men in both world wars so that we may live in freedom and safety.

Please give my heartfelt thanks to all involved for this kind and thoughtful act of remembrance.

Yours sincerely

Mrs J Curtis
